

ADVISORY COUNCIL

The International Association Counseling Services Advisory Council is available to be a free resource for directors of Counseling Centers who have questions about what it takes to have their center become IACS accredited; and for directors of centers that are already accredited by IACS, who can contact any Member of the Council if they have questions or concerns about issues affecting their centers accredited status. Of course, the Board of Directors and the Board of Accreditation, along with the Office staff, are always available to support you and respond to your questions and concerns.
