Little Angels Work Too

Author: Kathy Robinson

I saw her in a dream as she lay awaiting her place in the sky...
 We gathered around her bedside with tears in our eyes...
 She gave a nudge with her little legs letting us know she can see...
 She gave us a smile saying I'm at peace as you need to be...
 God needs Little Angels for there's a work we too must do...
 So I have to accept my wings now...
 For this is my job passing out these little crowns...
 You see down here on earth I had no voice...
 That's why I had to make this simple choice...
 Up in heaven is where I did decide...
 So family, please don't cry...
 I didn't really die...
 I will live on in every warm smile

Tatyana Jolee Rush

*"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course,
I have kept the faith."
- 2 Timothy 4:7*

Tatyana Jolee Rush was born to Matthew and Joie Rush, in Forsyth County, North Carolina on March 14, 2012. Tatyana not only fought a good fight, she fought valiantly and heroically, right up until the very end. Diagnosed with brain cancer at 18 months old, she endured brain surgery, countless invasive procedures and two years of chemotherapy, always with a smile on her face and a high five for everyone. No matter the pain she was in, Tatyana was always ready for a rousing game of patty cake, especially with her nana, Brenda Rush.

When her doctors pronounced her to be incurable and said she had only a few weeks or at most a few months left, they failed to consult Tatyana. She had other ideas and went on with her life, attending school at the Children's Center and continuing to grace the presence of all who met her for another year and a half.

On the 25th day of April, 2017 -

Our Precious Little Tatyana Jolee Rush received her wings. In all this time, while enduring pain that would have brought a fully-grown adult to their knees and with barely a cry or even a whimper, she fought with bravery and grace. But now, she has found peace and our loss is heaven's gain. Tatyana was preceded in death by her brother Kymani Jones.

She is survived by her loving parents, Matthew and Joie Rush; her little brother, Micah Rush; and baby sister, Jazelle Rush, all of the home; grandparents, Brenda Rush of Winston-Salem, Dennis Jarvis of Winston-Salem, Lynda Colvard of Elkin and Bill Colvard of Jonesville; great-grandmothers, Elneta Jones of Hope Mills, NC and Irene Colvard of Elkin; and a host of loving aunts, great-aunts, uncles, great-uncles and cousins.
