Did you know September is National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month?!

Hello! Nicole here! I thought I would share a little about myself with all of you. I am married and live in Waterloo with my husband and our two rescue fur babies.

I have one son who is 22 years old. He and his high school sweetheart are going to have my first grandbaby at the end of October, and I am beyond excited to meet this little girl! I grew up with brothers and had a son, so a girl is going to be a whole new experience for me.

I also wanted to share with everyone how special the month of September is to me. I am a 5-year ovarian cancer survivor as of February 2021! So, with September being National Ovarian Cancer Awareness month I thought I would share a little with all of you about this and myself.

Teal is the color for ovarian cancer awareness. Lucky for me it was already my favorite color before being diagnosed. You will see me in teal almost every day. I buy all things teal. My husband even painted our bedroom floor teal when we bought our house!

We are going to put together a little spot in the library with some pins, bracelets, and information for everyone. Starting September 7th, please come by and check it out. Take what you like and learn a little bit about ovarian cancer and its symptoms.

If you ever want to know more about my story, please feel free to stop by my office and just ask. I will gladly share. I also have dog treats here in my office for your fur babies. Please bring them
